JUDITH RALPH GRIGGS, Ph.D.

2012 RECIPIENT OF THE SISTER THEA BOWMAN LEGACY AWARD

Judith Ralph Griggs is the Director of Duquesne University's Robert and Patricia Gussin Spiritan Division of Academic Programs and the Michael P. Weber Learning Skills Center. She also serves as the University's Affirmative Action Officer.

Ms. Griggs is a member of the Boards of Trustees of the Holy Family Institute, a multi-service organization that supports children and families, and Power, an organization for women in recovery. In addition, she is a member of the Sixth Mt. Zion Baptist Church where she serves on the Board of Trustees.

In her own words, "I strive to root my work in ethical leadership. I believe that ethical leadership results from the conscious ordering of one's steps in life based upon values. These values ideally shape what individuals choose to pursue in life and how, and they serve as the 'border collie' for one's comportment as one moves through the world, ideally in an ongoing growth process.

"My view, moreover, is that the critical underpinning of ethical leadership is a set of values rooted in love and goodwill. Equally as important is the willingness of individuals to risk their approval status within a community to engage in activities they judge to represent the right actions to take, not necessarily those that bring approbation and support from the masses."
